IN DEDICATION

To one whose keen eye of discernment is focused on the goals and ideals of Eastern Nazarene College;

To one whose mind and fluency of speech have brought honor to self and to this College;

To one whose hand has penned a variety of publications;

To one whose heart embraces the home, the Church, the community and the lives on this campus of today and past days;

To one whose life finds expression in commitment and service through community leadership and as advisor to campus organizations;

To one who has been a friend to students and a caretaker of student interests;

To one who in 25 years of teaching has inspired his students to achieve their fullest potential;

To one who will never be forgotten by those students he advised and by those who have grown to respect, admire, and love him;

With grateful hearts and deep appreciation for his commitment, his example and his love, we dedicate this Nautilus to the ENC Superfan of 1976 —

DR. JAMES REESE CAMERON

Sunlight, a white beam, a single unit of brightness, yet when seen through a prism, its many colors are revealed — the spectrum of united diversity. Herein lies its singular beauty. Without each color in the spectrum the light beam is not complete.

The 1976 Nautilus is a prism through which we can see the dimensions of the spectrum of Eastern Nazarene College. These combined dimensions which make it unique, give it singular beauty and, like sunlight, united diversity.

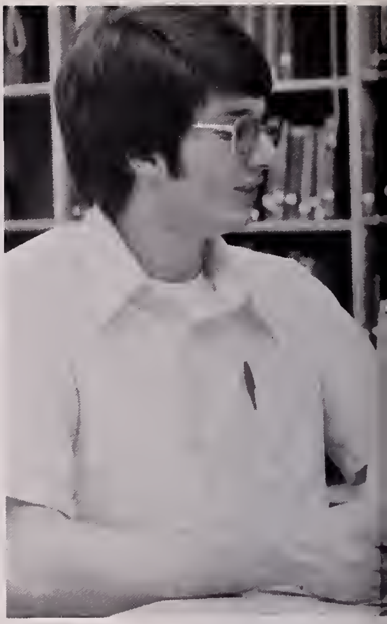
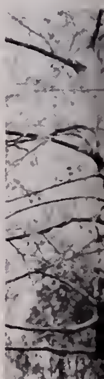
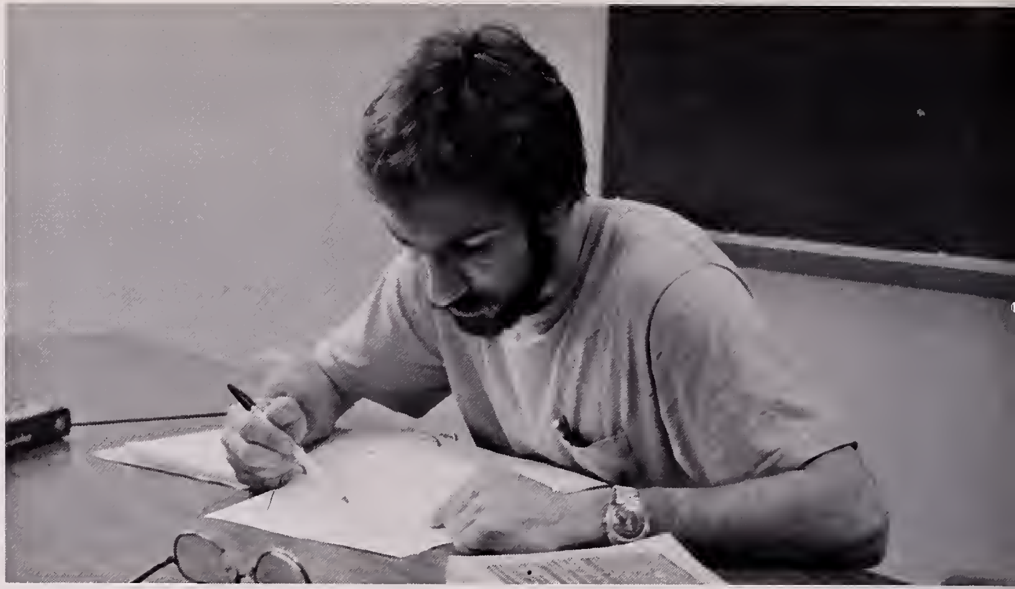
Eastern Nazarene College has a deeply rooted past located in the historical setting of Quincy. Rich in heritage, it was founded by those dedicated to Christian values. This dedication is still evident today in the quality of persons making up our community. People -- the timeless dimension.



Each person, in himself unique, has something unique to contribute. Then it happens: the gradual change from stranger to friend -- the chance for growth through interaction. Interpersonal relationships offer lessons in life and make memories for life.





Eastern Nazarene College upholds a high standard of education. The dimension that makes it different is the combination of the best in education with the best in Christian faith. Through the cirriculum and worship services emphasis is placed on the relationship of Christianity to the various disciplines and on the answers it provides for the needs and questions of mankind.

Involved in the liberal arts pattern of education is the development of the whole person as preparation for the responsibilities of life. This type of education includes the final dimensions of the arts and athletics. The arts encourage self-expression and aesthetic appreciation while athletics provide for the development of the body. Together these dimensions provide the school spirit--a sense of oneness between performer and audience, player and fan.

The dimensions of our college: people past and present, academics, religious life, the arts and athletics, are diverse parts of the spectrum that converge into one bright beam. Without each dimension the school is not complete. Herein lies the singular beauty of Eastern Nazarene College--united diversity.

FRESHMEN SUBJECT TO INEVITABLE RITES

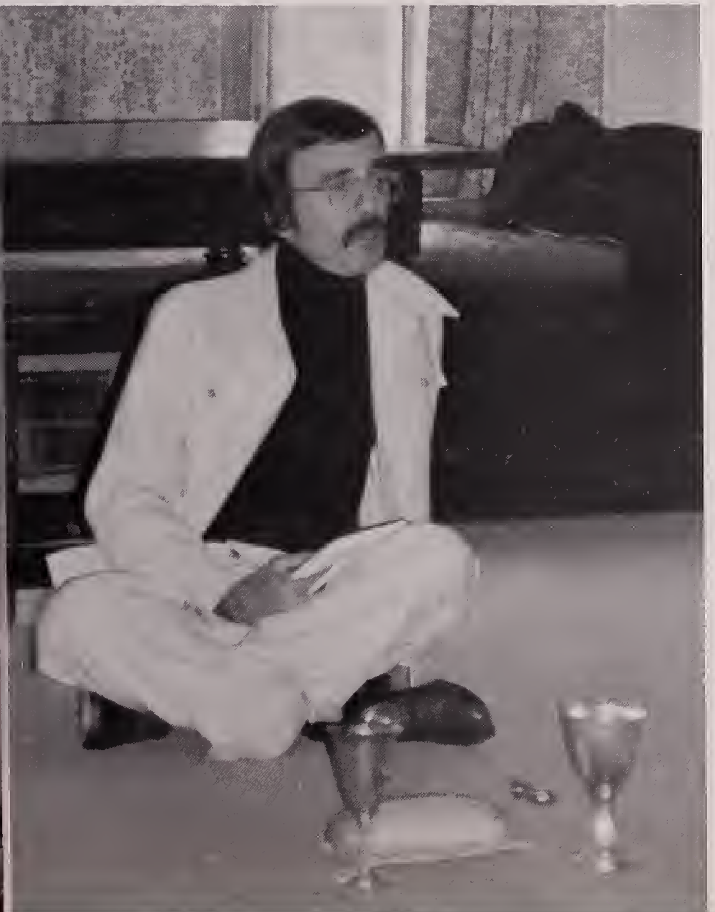
Novices undergo an intensive week of maturation, shed of extraneous roots, eighteen years of preparation compact themselves into a 12 x 14 foot cubicle. Sophomores help speed the ripening process in the hothouse of humilation. At last, triumphant in the trial by teasing, a new class is ready to face the first of many registration lines.

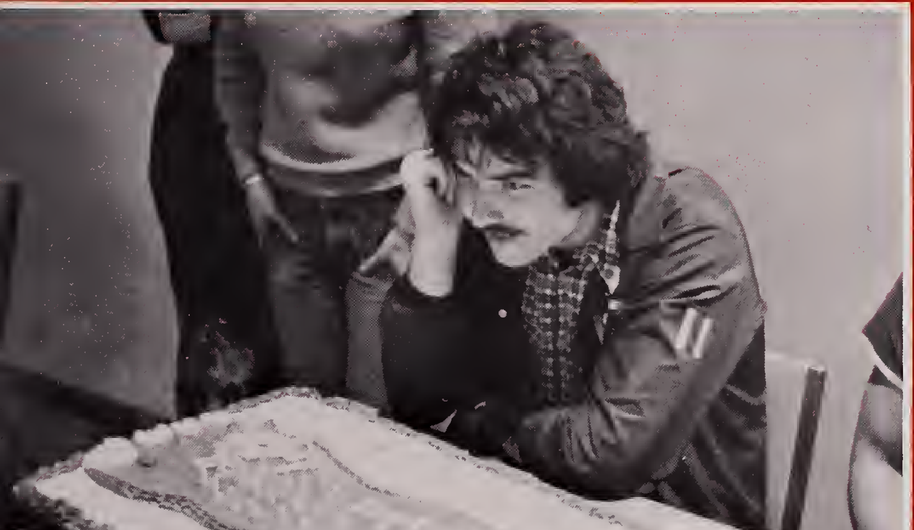
RIVAL CLASSES PULL TOGETHER

Interclass conflict reaches the point of outright war at the all-college outing during the battle of strained muscles and slippery rope. But the spirit of Camp Wonderland prevails; the war becomes a baseball game and the feast is a watermelon shared among friends.

"HERSTORY"

Tradition and innovation combined in this year's AWS' activities. A 1776/1976 bicentennial party first brought big and little sisters together. The group celebrated annual Pixie Week with a Thanksgiving dinner. Christmas caroling and a special communion service with Dean Helfrich rounded out the season's events.





PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE SHOCK

Eastern zone high school students visited the campus during three weekend motorcades. Besides the usual college tours and unplanned weekend excitement, the new sounds of The Archers, Truth and Dave Boyer concerts provided entertainment.

"A JOURNEY INWARD . . . A JOURNEY OUTWARD"

The fall semester had great spiritual emphasis under the ministries of Dr. Louis Evans in the Staley Lecture Series and Rev. Mel McCullough in the fall revival. Their messages focused on the eight Covenant relationships between believers that are achieved on the spiritual journey out from ourselves, only after we have made that same journey inward.

WATER, WATER — EVERYWHERE

Raindrops kept falling on the deck while ENC couples viewed Boston after dark during the boat cruise through Boston Harbor. After a buffet supper the Homecoming semi-finalists were announced.

"WE MAY NEVER PASS THIS WAY AGAIN."

Homecoming 1975 was a time for reflection. Visiting alumni reminisced around pictures from old yearbooks. At the pageant, members of the court recalled incidents from their own childhood while anxiously awaiting the crowning of the Queen. Featured singer, Tom Netherton appeared in concert with popular songs past and present.

Homecoming 1975 may never come again. But the memories: the puddles, the reunions, the beauty and pageantry will always remain.

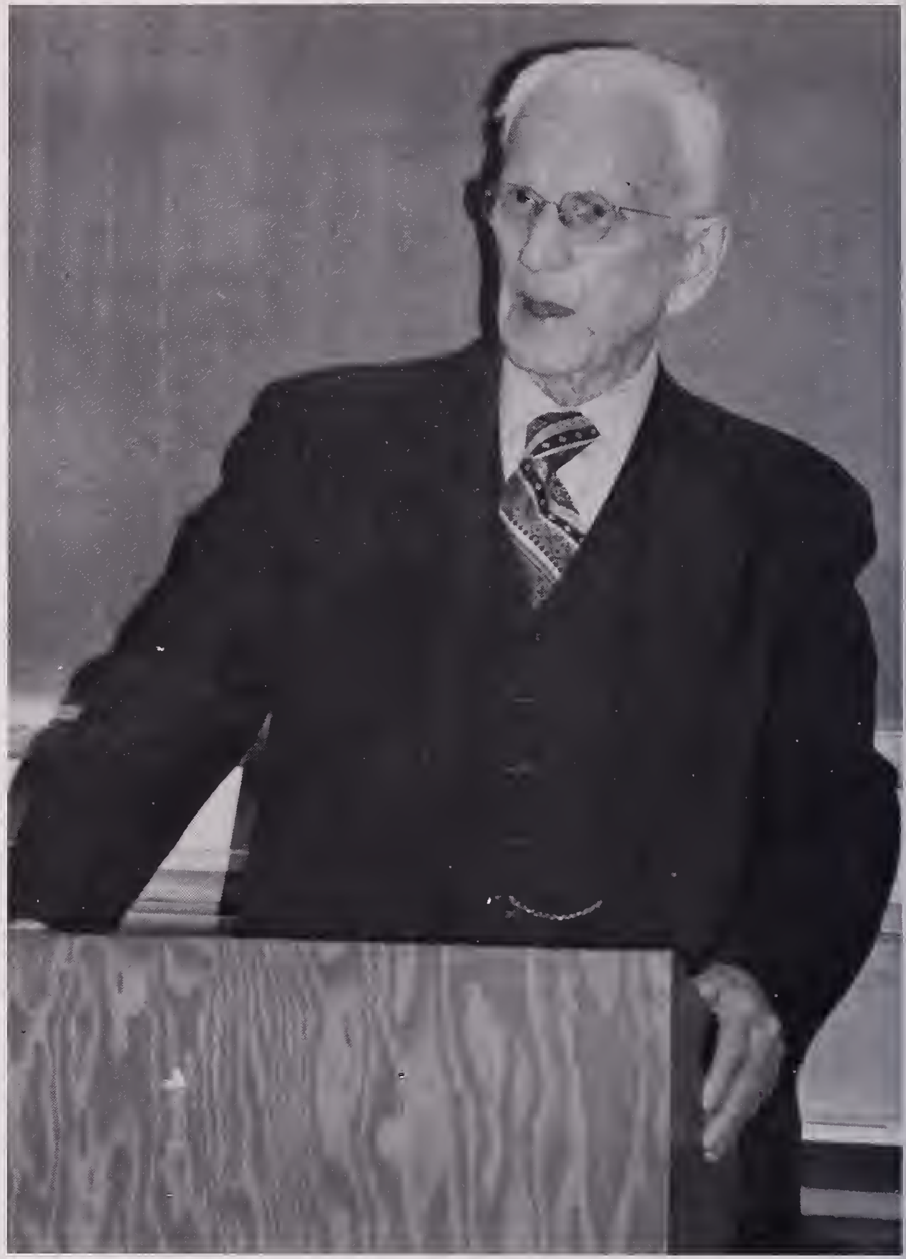
CIRCLE K SPIRIT HAUNTS GYM

Ghouls, hunchbacks, goblins, and a hangman were the sights of the Circle K spook walk in Lahue Gym. This spine-tingling event topped off the evening of fun at the annual Halloween party.

A BIT OF LIVING HISTORY



It was an evening of living history as the former Speaker of the House of Representatives, John W. McCormack addressed students, faculty, and community residents in Shrader Lecture Hall, that brisk November evening. The aging but sharp politician from Massachusetts took a youthful generation back to the days of Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman; to the days of World War II, Hiroshima, and Korea; to private conversations between himself and our Nation's leaders. It was a historical perspective to say one thing: America must return her strength ... She must never fall prey to the mistake of appeasement. The Speaker left to a standing ovation, admired and respected by those who had heard a historical lesson in foreign policy in this emerging day of detente.

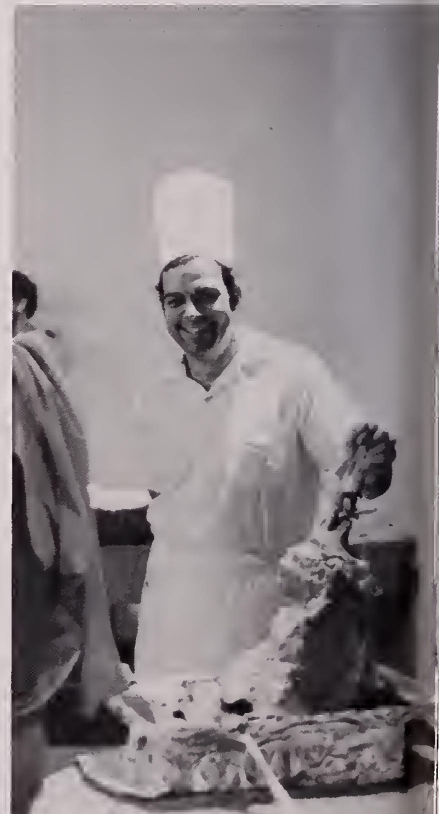
f I don't go

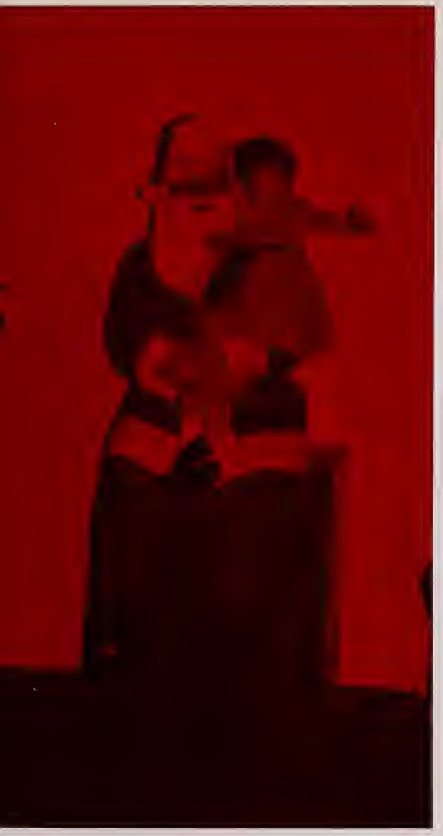


If I don't go . . .

The Missions Blitz was a week of awakening to world missions. Students enjoyed displays and an international banquet of foods from all over the world. Guest missionary speakers, inspiring and challenging, reminded all of their responsibility to missions -- if you don't go, who will?

A WINTER EDEN

ENC couples enjoyed the winter formal with entertainment by the Boston Tea Party. It was an elegant evening bringing beauty in the starkness of winter -- a winter Eden.

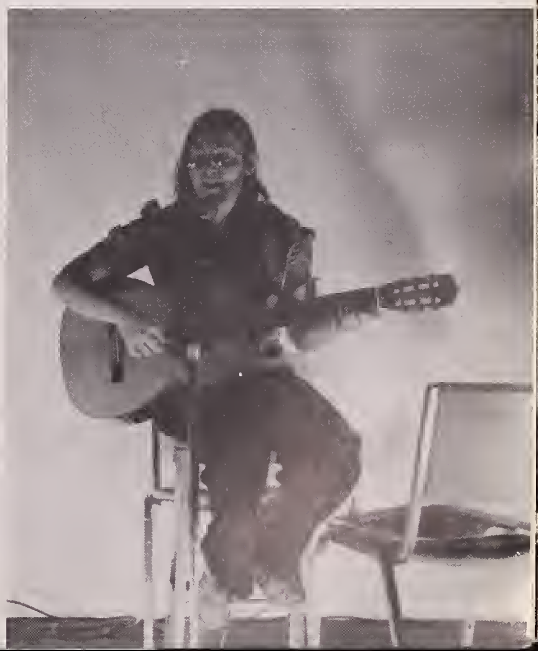


"WHERE'S CHRISTMAS?"

The Student Council Christmas party involved a search -- a search for Christmas. The buffet supper ... Santa Claus ... presents under the tree -- but where's Christmas? The star . . . the manger bed . . . the Greatest Gift -- there's Christmas.

KING'S BUSINESS PAYS OFF

For a while, it appeared that the budget deficit would prevent the Crusaders from participating in the 1976 King's tournament. But determined players and fans staged a variety of fund-raising events: gym nights, dinners, a coffee house, a male "fashion show", and even the institution of passing the bucket for a buck during games. It worked: on March 3, the Big Red Machine rolled towards King's college with the budget in the black.



Let's do it again!

With the school spirit at its peak, the Crusaders did it again and won the King's Tourney by placing first in women's volleyball and chess, second in basketball and table tennis, third in cheerleading, fourth in bowling and fifth in barber shop quartet competition. It was this combined excellence in every area that left ENC victorious again.

SPRING CLEANING

Annual campus clean-up day provided recovery from winter dullness, escape (temporary) from studies, and the consolation of fresh green and the chance for new growth.

MORE THAN JUST ANDRAE

The second performance of Andrae Crouch and the Disciples drew capacity crowds. This Student Council sponsered concert featured songs from many of the group's albums including the latest, JUST ANDRAE.

FABULOUS FIFTIES FLASHBACK

Looking back to the days of their (early) youth, AMS and AWS members recreated some of the looks and sounds of the 1950's era. Pony-tailed girls with bobby socks and "greasers" in white T-shirts were reminded of the fads of the Fifties: goldfish-swallowing contest, dance marathons, and the hula hoop. Later the "NaShaSha" entertained the malt shoppe group with the music of that decade.

POLITICAL AWARENESS

Eastern Nazarene College was honored to have Senator Birch Bayh, Democratic candidate for President of the United States as a speaker in chapel on the day prior to the important Massachusetts primary. In his speech he pleaded for young people throughout the nation to overcome apathetic attitudes toward the political process. Active student participation followed in a lengthy question-answer period that helped replace apathy with political awareness.

JOHN CHAPTER 17

The High-Priestly prayer of Jesus (John Chapter 17) was the text for the messages of Rev. Reuben Welch, evangelist for the spring revival. This text, whether presented in chapel or in the gym due to Tuesday's reversal, provided valuable insight into what Christ desired for all disciples.

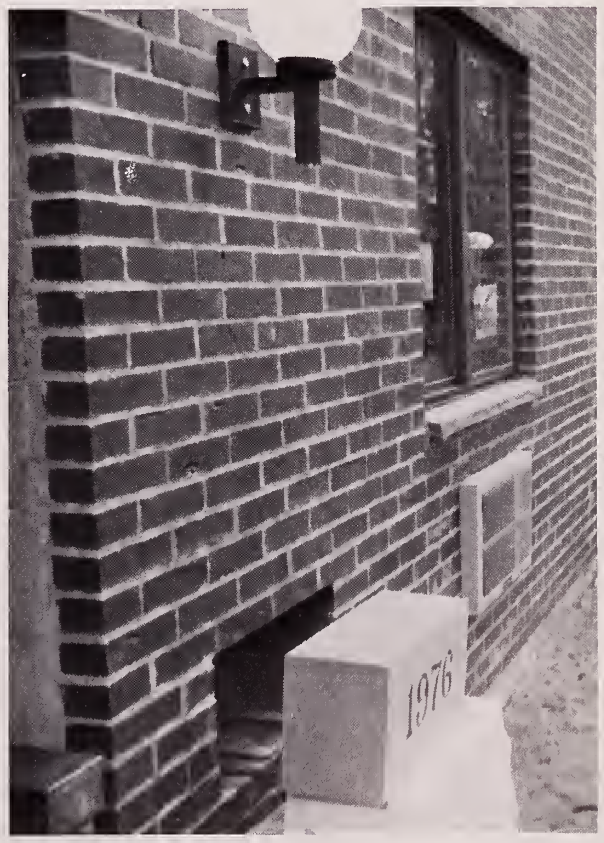
ANOTHER CAMPUS CORNERSTONE

Another campus cornerstone was laid at the dedication of the new married students dormitory -- a complex of 58 apartments. Trustees as well as Quincy officials participated in this ceremony that marked another year of campus growth.



"WE'VE ONLY JUST BEGUN . . . "

The Junior Class prepared the way for the Senior procession at the traditional Junior-Senior Day Convocation. The Class Charges were given and Professor Glen Keys addressed the class of 1976. Nostalgic and reflective, the Senior choir sand their class song and realized they has only just begun.

"I'VE GOT PIECES OF APRIL. I KEEP THEM IN A MEMORY BOUQUET."

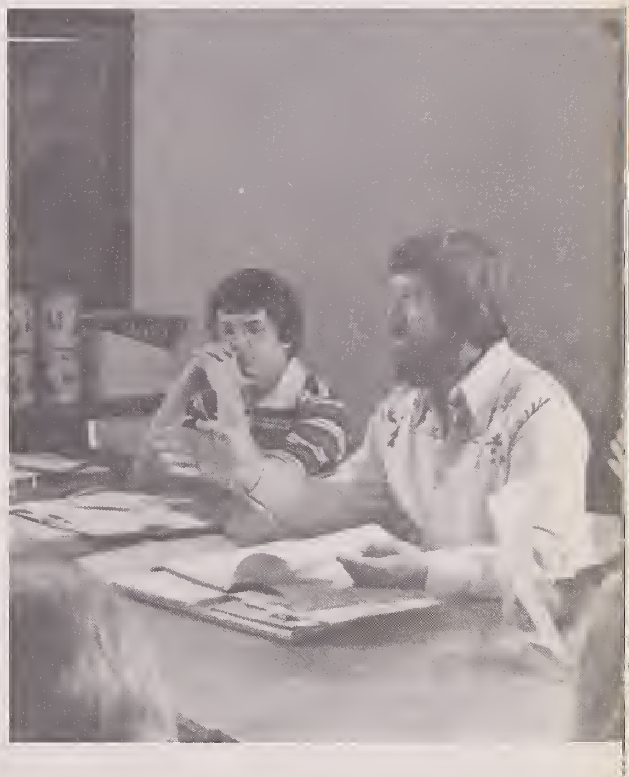
PIECES OF APRIL

Junior-Senior Day culminated with a formal banquet at the Copley Plaza Hotel. Seniors enjoyed reflections of their years at ENC as portrayed by the Juniors before hearing the announcement of the most outstanding Seniors: Greg Niblett and Betty Gardner. The elegant evening concluded with the musical talent of Danny Taylor.

'I'VE GOT PIECES OF APRIL AND IT'S A MORNING IN MAY."

ENC HOSTS NAZARENE STUDENT LEADERS

Boston and Quincy: Where the sights and sounds of the American revolution were born 200 years ago; Where in 1976 the ENC Student Council played host to the Nazarene Student Leadership Conference during the American Bicentennial Celebration. Nazarene Student Leaders and Administrators from sister colleges across the continent gathered to hold workshops and business meetings. There were discussions on leadership ... management seminars ... campus ministry and Bible study emphasis ... a business meeting at the State Capitol ... a visit from Governor Dukakes ... touring Quincy ... "1776" ... ice cream social ... seeing Boston in one day ... old presidents teaching new presidents ... old friends sharing good times ... new friendships being made. And after all the endless airport and motel shuttles, and 15-20 hour days, it was worth it. Delegates from the 10 other colleges saw ENC at her best ... and we were proud.



ENC STUDENTS HAVE THEIR SHARE OF UPS AND DOWNS

The Lincoln Park outing was a day of ups and downs, of roller coasters and cotton candy, of friends and fun.

ENC'S HALL OF FAME

The Crusader sports banquet honored all our athletes of the 1975-76 school year. The most coveted awards went to Brenda Henley, Best-all-around Woman Athlete and to Gordon Wetmore recipient of the Carroll F. Bradley Award. Even Crusador spectators didn't go away empty handed as Dr. James Cameron was named Super-Fan of 1976.

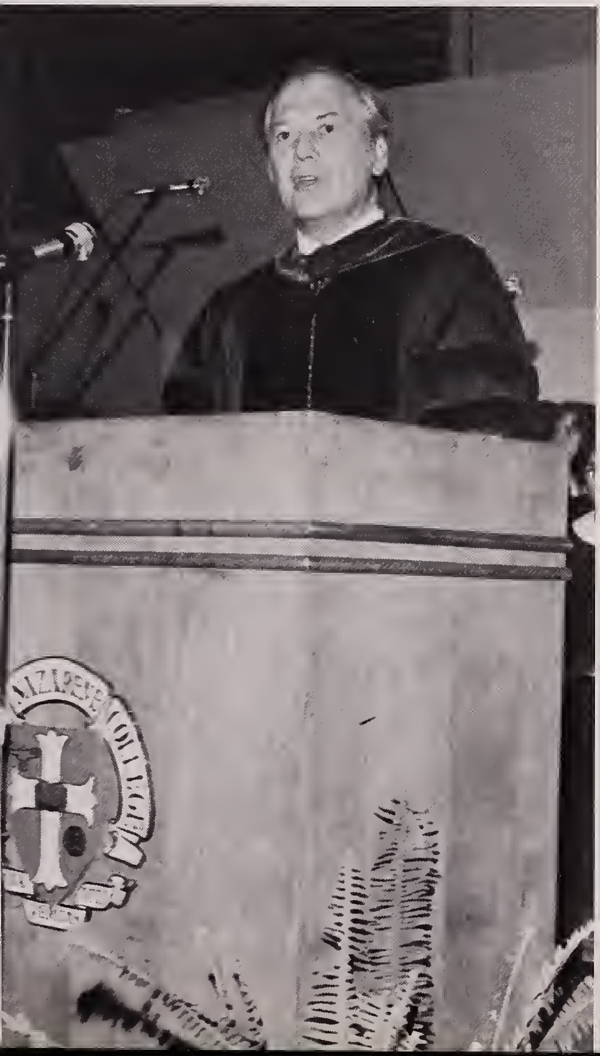
A SENIOR BENEDICTION

Seniors worshipped together along with parents and friends in the Baccalaureate service. It was a senior benediction -- thanksgiving for the past four years and a blessing for the future.



A NEW BEGINNING

The fifty-fourth annual Commencement marked the end of four years of study and a new beginning for all the graduates. Dr. Edward S. Mann, former President of ENC, challenged the Seniors to utilize all that their education has given them through their studies, their faith and their friends.

VOLLEYBALL 1975-76

Season Record: 15-0

Women's volleyball had another exciting season in '76 ending up with a perfect record of wins. Their victories did not stop there for they went on to win at King's Tournament. In four years of play the volleyball team has won 46 matches and lost only 4. Coach Detwiler and the team are to be congratulated for their dedication and skill that again proved ENC to be number one.

The Basketball Crusaders were a pleasant surprise to everyone this year, including Coach Smith, finishing the season with a record of 21 wins and 8 losses.

Three veterans and a host of new comers combined to give our enthusiastic fans a shouting good year. Co-captain Mike Cox scored his 1000th point during the final game of his career and co-captain Gordon Wetmore had another good year with a 14.96 scoring average. Mike Barefoot led the team in scoring with a 19.68 average. Two newcomers joining Cox, Wetmore, and Barefoot in double figures were Peter Ribeiro, 12.25 points per game and Kevin Gibson, 11.86 points per game.

The season highlights were a 1st place finish with an 8-0 record in the Naismith Basketball Conference and a second place finish in the King's College Tournament. Players receiving special recognition were: All-Conference, Peter Riveiro (CO-MVP) Gordon Wetmore, Mike Barefoot and Mike Cox; Nazarene Athletic Association All Stars, Mike Barefoot; National Christian College All-District, Mike Cox and Mike Barefoot.

The young and unexperienced team this year fought to overcome the depth of their opponents. The strength and improvement of the team and the use of 6'2" Donna Fandel, one of the leading rebounders in New England, will prove that E.N.C. is a team to be reckoned with in the future. In its thirteen year history, the women have suffered only three losing seasons.

a deeply rooted past in historic
Quincy -- rich in heritage

BICENTENNIAL

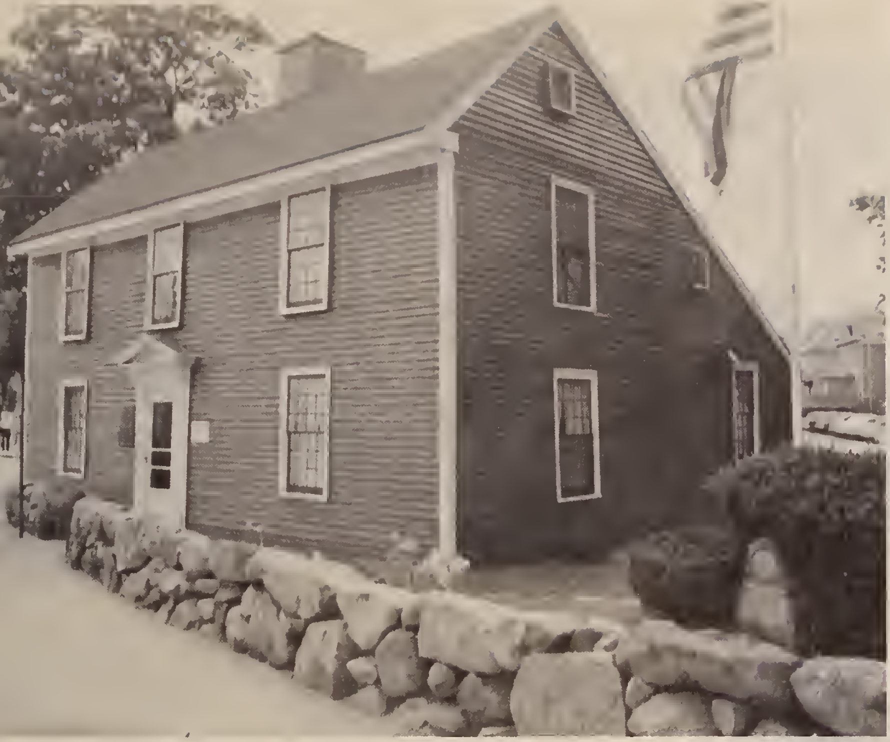
A CELEBRATION OF HISTORY

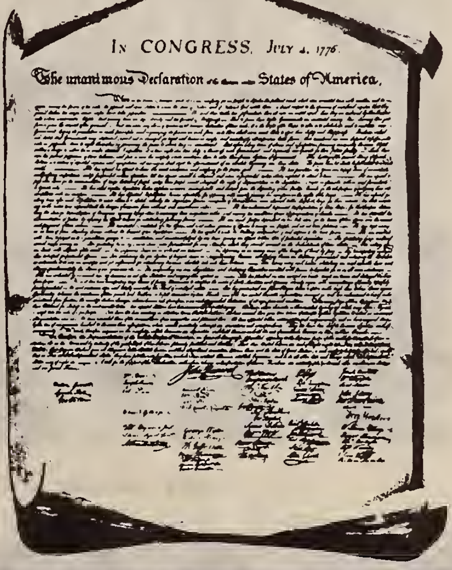
It was Braintree then. A community that was already 150 years old. A community that had sprung from Mount Wollaston's earliest settlement to become a pioneer of American independence. In 1776 "a strong citizenry and positive leadership" had developed in Quincy to pave the way for a revolution that had already occurred in the hearts of the local colonists. Quincy gave America leadership: The persistent and courageous leadership of John Adams to see a dream realized; the fearless and active leadership of John Hancock who joined Adams early in fighting for liberty; and the local leadership of Josiah Quincy who played host to the leading statesmen of the day. From the hearts of American patriots everywhere there was a call for revolution and leadership -- Quincy answered the call.

John Adams

Although not actually in the fighting of Boston, Quincy was close enough to feel the pain of tyranny. From his home, (Picture Opposite) Josiah Quincy could see the English ships in Quincy Bay as he looked out across what is now the site of the ENC campus (Picture Above).

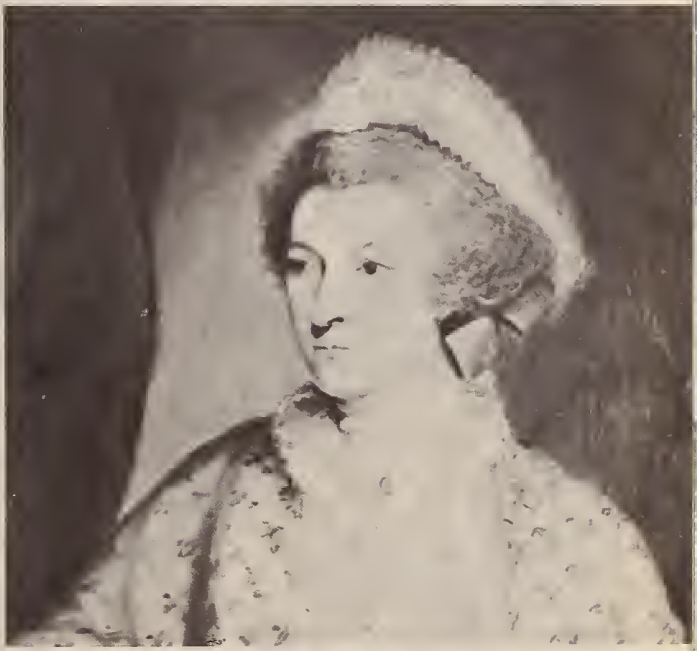


John Adams' Birthplace
This house still stands in Quincy on ground that was once in "Braintree" farm where Abigail lived while John was in Congress in Philadelphia.

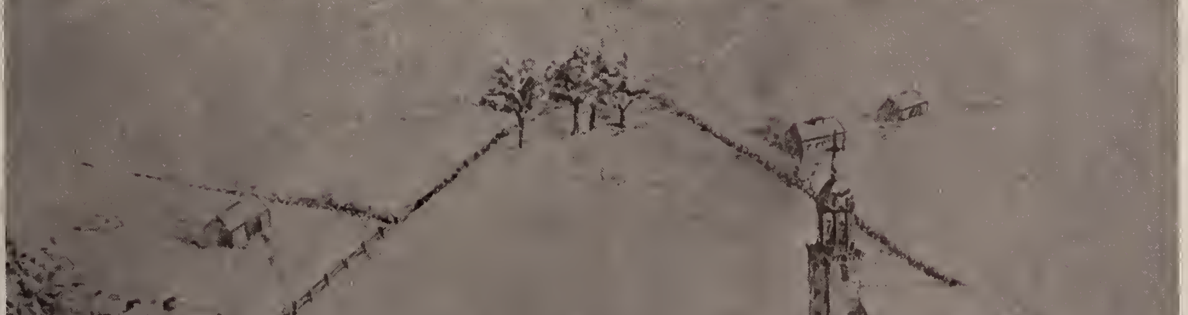


In CONGRESS, July 4, 1776.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America,



Abigail Adams



Quincy Square in the 1700's

1776

1876

"Quincy's history is a story of change." By 1876 Quincy had matured even more and by right was officially called Quincy. When the turn of the century came the people had turned to the sea for shipbuilding, trading and fishing. But it was granite that brought fame and wealth and people to this community south of Boston. With the dawn of America's centennial, Quincy was an economically thriving community which had survived the maturing experience of Civil War and was on the threshold of becoming a modern city.

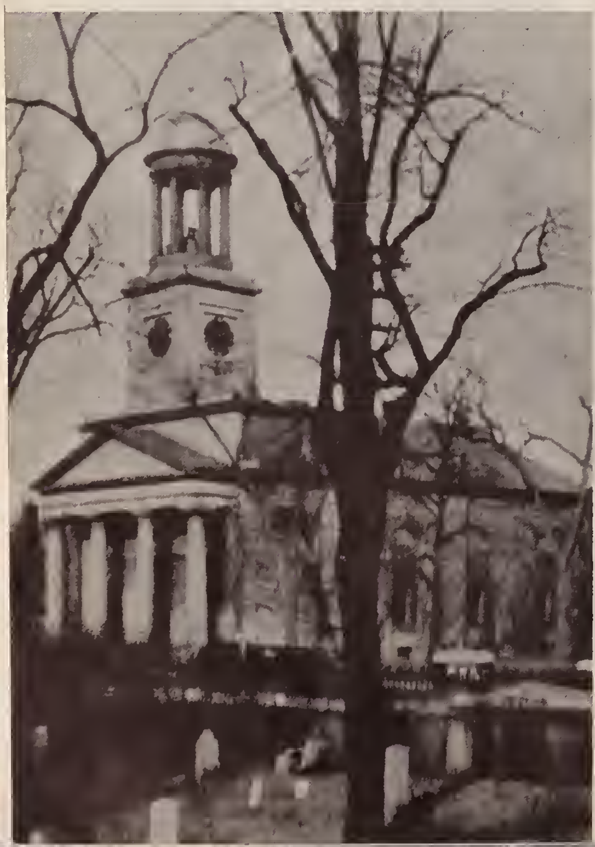
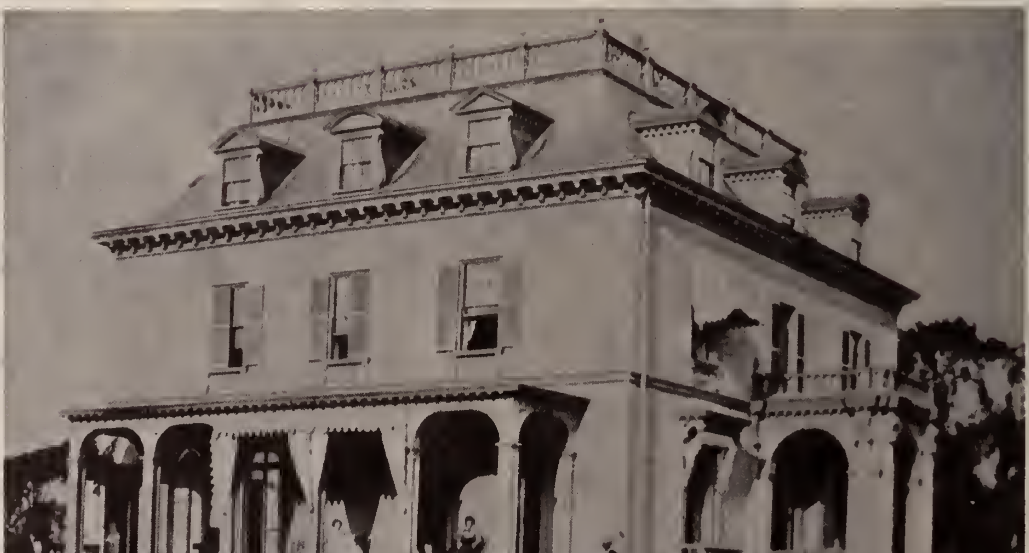
Church of the Presidents, Quincy Square





The Quincy Mansion that stood on the ENC campus as it looked in 1876.

"It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shews, games, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other from this time forever more."
-- John Adams, July 3, 1776

It was July 3, 1976 and hundreds of people crowded Wollaston Beach to see John Adams prediction come true. There were bonfires and fireworks. There had been parades and shows and there would be many more. And in the same street and the same area, 20th century residents of Adams' nativity absorbed the good that had had been inherited from the past. The old farmhouses in West Quincy were still there; the Adams mansion and the Josiah Quincy homestead still stand firm as reminders. But with them stand 200 years of growth and constructive change -- modern buildings and high rises -- paved streets and telephone wires -- automobiles and modern shipbuilding.

1976

So Quincy has changed and modernized. "Change has always been its strength enabling it to keep in time with the times." And as it faces the future and the problems of today and tomorrow, Quincy will continue to grow and develop in the same spirit that spawned the American Revolution.

DELTA SOCIETY

Delta . . .Determination . . . Enthusiam . . . Laughter . . . Togetherness . . . Action . . . These characteristics all combine to make Delta a truly great society to be a part of.

This year we have made an effort to reach out to all members of our society. For those interested in sports, our Tigers placed first again in basketball and soccer and second in softball, volleyball and bowling.

For others, we have had prayer breakfasts including a special one with former Delta, Dr. Donald Young and pizza sales.

For the benefit of the student body as a whole, we have sponsored a pumpkin carving contest; a fund raising program for the Bethany Hill School for Multihanicapped and Aphasic Children, and the sale of Carnations for Valentine's Day.

We have tried to make our society members proud of our society, involved in it and enthusiastic for what we as a group can contribute to the student body. In that we have tried, we have succeeded.

KAPPA SOCIETY

People having fun . . . people going places . . . people enjoying different activities together . . . this was Kappa 1975-76.

A synthesis of the old and the new best describe Kappa. This year new ideas sparked an interest. After the usual Kappa Banana Split night during Rush Week it was team work between Circle K and Kappa Society who enabled all students to enjoy Halloween 1975 by way of the Spook Walk. Next was Kappa's first Thanksgiving feast featuring turkeys galore with all the dressings . . .

Travel with Miss Janes who took us to Africa and Ireland VIA her slides . . . all-society talent night. Kappa's concern for students was shown by the Kappa Spirit Contest '76.

To sum up the year we congratulate those Kappa MVP's in their respective sports, salute those who made it possible to win 1st place among the societies in academics and thank every Kappa for being a part of a good society.

It was a great year . . . it was a year like so many others, but it was a special year too. Getting to know six close colleagues and working with them as friends and advisors. Sharing together our triumphs and our failures.

We had our successes: good representation at the Faculty Retreat . . . All-School Outing . . . a new pool table . . . a new and bigger office . . . Putting CLS in the Stuco Office where it belongs . . . John McCormack . . . 1776 . . . The Artist Cultural Series . . . Pocket Mime . . . Winter Formal . . . Andrae Crouch . . . Raising money for King's Tournament and the tennis team . . . Guatamala Relief Drive . . . Christmas Party . . . and endless hours of administrative work, letter writing, and meetings.

We did not get a Physical Education Major yet . . . we ran out of time on the Faculty Review proposal . . . and the foreign language requirement will be discussed again next year. But we did allocate money to remodel the conference room and Stuco Office . . . and it was an outstanding financially successful year.

But Student Council was more than hard work and successes . . . it was students and people . . . serving and getting involved . . . building new relationships . . . strenghtening old relationships . . . working with a concerned advisor . . . relying on faith when anxiety set in . . . helping organizations, students, and the school . . . realizing everyone's value . . . growing spiritually . . . working with Brenda, Doug, Mike, Rich, Beth, Pat, Becky, Vicki, Fran, Bobbie, Dawn, and countless others who work behind the scenes and receive no credit . . . yes it was a year of people . . . a year of 100% . . . a year ended but not forgotten . . . how can I say Thanks?

the best in education -- the best in Christian faith

FACULTY

THE PRESIDENT

On May 26, 1975, the former New England District Superintendent, the Reverend Donald Irwin accepted the Presidential Medallion to assume his roll at Eastern Nazarene College.

Rev. Irwin began his ministry at the age of 18. He has pastored in several cities in Florida, California, Tennessee, and Illinois. He has served on many advisory boards dealing with education and home missions. He continued his interest by traveling in over 40 countries and visited nearly 300 missionaries. He graduated from Asbury Theological Seminary and has done graduate work at the University of Southern California. On May 31, 1976, Rev. Irwin will receive his honorary doctorate from Asbury College.

President Irwin has witnessed major changes in E.N.C. during this year. The spiritual emphasis has been an overwhelming factor that has brought the campus and community closer together. He is also encouraged by an upturn in enrollment for second semester and applications for the fall of 1976.

He is working toward providing more career majors at E.N.C.; career counseling and beginning next fall, a new major in Christian Education is being offered.

The challenge of surviving financial difficulties is one of President Irwin's major concerns. This need is met by the support of our local churches on our zone and the increase in our enrollment.

His wife, Lillian, adds extra warmth to the campus and community. She is involved in activities and sharing with students. The Irwins have two children. Their daughter, Linda, is a teacher at Massachusetts Field Elementary School in Quincy. Donald, their son, is a senior at Olivet Nazarene College.

President Irwin must be commended for his vital interest in each and every student as an individual. He is readily accepted as administrator and friend by the student body. It is in this regard we welcome Rev. Donald Irwin, President of Eastern Nazarene College.

The Department of History emphasizes the importance of human and Christian values in the affairs of men and of nations. Through a study of the decisions and actions of men, the historian examines a spectrum of values and the results of their implementation. I chose to major in history for three reasons: (1) I enjoyed the study of history. (2) I did well in history courses. (3) I was attracted to two outstanding Christian scholars who exemplified the ideals that I sought to emulate. In graduate school, I found the same type of individual and that is why I majored in English history. One day as an undergraduate, standing by the water fountain outside the office of the dean of the college, I felt distinctly that I should prepare to teach history at Eastern Nazarene College. With this year, I conclude twenty-five years of teaching on this campus. Over the years, the Lord has indicated that I should reject attractive offers of other positions. Today I strive to maintain the Christian and academic ideals of such predecessors as Dean Emeritus Bertha Munro and Professor James H. Shrader.

PHILOSOPHY RELIGION

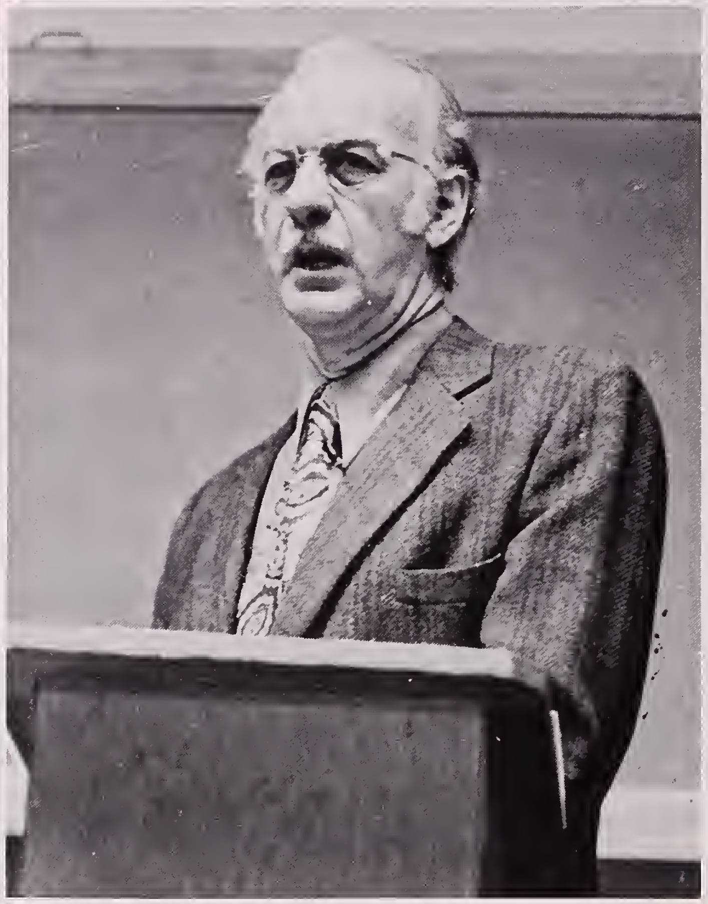
WILLIAM E. MCCUMBER, A.B., A.M., D.D.
Professor



To my mind philosphy is something you "do", which, of course, includes thinking. The department of philosophy addresses itself to the conventional problems which constitute part of its subject matter; and encourages students to engage in the practice of critical thinking; the analysis of ideas and truth-claims; the actual working with hypotheses, deduction, and induction in problem-solving; the very practical attempt to relate reason and revelation. I chose the field of philosophy because it seemed to give me precisely the kind of logical a and speculative tool I needed for a synoptic understanding of my own faith and life. There was never any question about the primacy of faith, but my faith sought understanding, hence philosophy. That the philosophical quest became my "work" was a very satisfying second blessing. A dedicated philosophy teacher at ENC inspired my search as a student, and later the college provided the opportunity for my inspiration to find expression in teaching. The basic motif of my teaching over the years has been my commitment to the belief that a warm heart and a clear head should ever be in dynamic juxtaposition. In my opinion the department of philosophy fulfills a basic function in a Christian college if it can help keep these two, faith and philosophy, in creative tension.

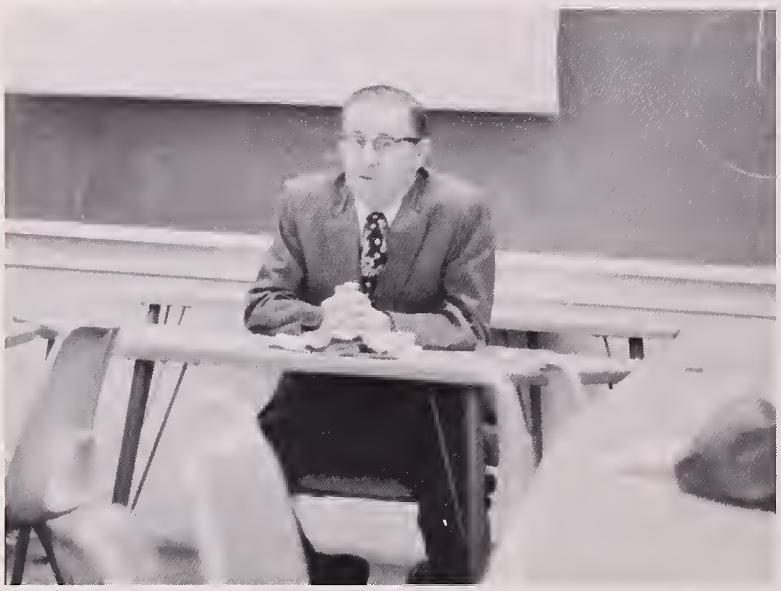
SOCIOLOGY



DONALD P. BRICKLEY, A.B., A.M., PH.D.
Professor

The purpose of the Department of Sociology and Social Work is to assist the student to develop an understanding of man in time and space within a Christian frame of reference; to find a future of satisfying employment in social work practice, education, or research; to provide a sound foundation for graduate studies. I chose the field of sociology and anthropology because God called me to be a missionary while I was in high school, and I felt that this field would best provide me with the educational equipment that I would need to understand and communicate with people of another culture. I am fully convinced of the value of Christian education. To me there is nothing hackneyed about the phrase, "the best in education combined with the best in the Christian religion."

The purpose of the Education Department at E.N.C. is to train young people to go out into the public schools and influence their students to enter into useful and dedicated lives in whatsoever field they eventually choose as a vocation. With the great variety of winds that are blowing throughout a confused world today, there is certainly no greater challenge for a young person than the classroom. For it is here that the opportunity abounds for a teacher to help bring about order out of chaos in the thinking of the young people of today and instill the basic Biblical precepts as did our earlier educators. My profession seemed to unfold for me in the development of natural sequences. For from my earliest recollections I have always loved children and young people and have wanted to be of service to them. Teaching at E.N.C. was a door that opened and one through which I definitely felt the leadership of God. Eastern Nazarene College was not my choice but God's choice for me. It has increasingly become my destiny. I have found my teaching at E.N.C. to be both rewarding and fullfilling as I have discovered avenues through which creativity could flower and Christian ideals be instilled within searching and receptive minds.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The position of NAUTILUS editor is not a job it is a life style. Most of one's waking hours (and some sleeping) are consumed with thoughts of the book's detailed planning and production. There were difficult times when the pictures of an event didn't turnout, or when you found out your "great idea" for a certain section cost too much or when every photographer thought someone else was shooting an event. But then there were those times when things worked out just right. It was those times and those special people that made them possible that made serving you this year a rewarding experience.

The concept that God is interested in every area of our lives is not a mere statement but has become a vital part of my faith. I want to thank God for His assistance with and interest in my job as editor. In those times when overwhelmed with responsibility and feelings of inadequacy God responded with a calmness out of which came many ideas for the book. So if there is anything of value in this book -- the praise belongs to God.

The 1976 NAUTILUS is the result of a joint effort. I especially want to thank my Business Manager, Sue Collier for all her hard work done so efficiently for and her friendship and support beyond the requirements of the job. Thank you, Stafford, Mike Marty, and Leon for your faithfulness to the photography of the book and your patience with me after giving you so many assignments. To the section editors Myra, Amy, LuAnn, Vickie and Annie a special thank you for your job well done. I wish to thank the rest of the staff, Steve, Chuck, Debbie, Dean, Dave, Jeannie, Eloise and Lerae for your various contributions as well.

The Student Council and Dr. Cameron were also very supportive and we as a staff would like to thank you. A special thanks to Greg for his assistance with some of the copy.

We appreciated the cooperation received from Josten's American Yearbook Company and our area representative, Bob Murphy. He gave us the special combination of excellent technical advice, encouragement, and friendship. Rappoport Studios and Mr. Bottlestone provided us with efficient service and beautiful photographic results as evidenced in the Senior Section. Credit also belongs to Larry Yerdon and the Quincy Historical Society for the use of their files and photos in the research for the Bicentennial section; to Taylor Publishing Company for the use of their tree design (TAYLOR TALK, ISSUE 3, 1975); and to Fred Cawthorne for photographing the prism and spectrum for the cover.
